Liver Regulator Liverpool and the usual result here, our market more than losing the gain made yesterday and showing a rather flat tone throughday and showing a rather flat tone throughout. There is nothing new, the whole situation hinging upon the condition of affairs abroad, and these failing to give the least signs of encouragement. Indeed, with many of the trade who for a day or two past have been a trifle hopeful that the worst was over, there is once more a revulsion of feeling, and in view of to-day's accounts they look upon foreign affirs as extremely gloomy, with little chance for our market until a really solid showing for improvement comes from Liverpool. The rates now reached—the lowest yet—the inclination to sell the market off naturally is limited, and this with the recent considerable reduction [of the 'short' interest and absence of desire to invest has given only a fair business for the day, with a great deal of it confined to brokers' manipulations, and few large blocks handled. The total shrinkage, compared with last evening, was 11 @ 15.
